OPERATIONS COMMENCE AT THE NEW NADZAB TOMODACHI INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT TERMINAL

NAC is pleased to announce that the Nadzab Tomodachi International Terminal is operational.

The government has invested millions of Kina to ensure that the facilities are provided at an international standard, which includes up-to-date check-in systems, migration facilities, comfortable passenger departure and arrival lounges, adequate baggage collection facilities, efficient baggage transfers from check-in desks to aircraft, and the use of aerobridges.

NAC Acting Managing Director Joseph Kintau urges airline operators to fully utilise the investments for passenger comfort and the efficiency of facilitating passenger movements.

The facilities are designed to ensure maximum security surveillance by NAC, and we urge all users to comply with the airport's requirements. State-of-the-art building management and airport management systems are installed that will enable real-time coordination, surveillance, and recording of all activities within the terminal.

The public is also urged to enjoy the facility with due care that will enable the airport to remain clean, tidy and user-friendly for all to use. It is an iconic facility that will also be opened up for international passenger movements; therefore, we urge the public to help maintain a high level of care.

We congratulate Air Niugini, PNG Air and other users of our facility and thank them as our partners in providing aviation services to the people of Papua New Guinea. We anticipate that the new facility will open on the 4th of December, 2023, and we hope they will also be diligent and cooperative in taking care of these facilities. End//
